ABSTRACT

This article deals with the tourism and through this an attempt has been made to compare and contrast tourism sector of India and China. This article reveals that China is performing better than India in tourism and it also highlights the points where India lags behind China.

WHAT IS TOURISM?

The first definition of tourism was made by Guyer Feuler in 1905. According to UNWTO: "Tourism comprises the activities of persons travelling to and staying in places outside their usual environment for not more than one consecutive year for leisure, business and other purposes.”

Tourism can be divided into:

GROWTH AND EVOLUTION OF INDIA’S TOURISM

It was only after the 80’s that tourism activity gained momentum. A National Policy on Tourism was announced in 1982. In 1992, a National Action Plan was prepared and in 1996 the National Strategy for Promotion of Tourism was drafted. The Ministry of Tourism has adopted a „pro-poor tourism” approach which could contribute significantly to poverty reduction. More than half of Tourism Ministry’s Plan budget is channelized for funding the development of destinations, circuits, mega projects as also for rural tourism infrastructure projects. The other major development that took place was the setting up of the India Tourism Development Corporation in 1966 to promote India as a tourist destination and the Tourism Finance Corporation in 1989 to finance tourism projects. Altogether, 21 Government-run Hotel Management and Catering Technology Institutes and 14 Food Craft Institutes were also established for imparting specialized training in hoteliering and catering.

INITIATIVES TAKEN BY GOVERNMENT

RURAL TOURISM
Rural Tourism is essentially an activity which takes place in the countryside. It is multifaceted and may entail farm/agricultural tourism, cultural tourism, nature tourism, adventure tourism, and eco tourism.

AGRI-TOURISM
Agri tourism is considered as the fastest growing sector in the tourism industry. The concept has been successfully implemented in states like Maharashtra, Kerala, Rajasthan, Jharkhand, Gujarat and Himachal Pradesh. It has become a new avenue for earning the income for the rural farmers.

TAKING A LOOK AT THE STATISTICS
The travel and tourism industry contributed 5.35% of GDP in 2013. It created 22 million jobs and is the second largest tourism market in Asia.

As compared to 2000, the arrival of international tourist increased from 2.65 to 6.85 million. Our outbound tourism is also seeing a rise. US and Europe are some of the popular destinations of Indian tourists. Indian tourism is witnessing a steady growth as shown is the figure and has become a very important sector of Indian economy.
AN OVERVIEW OF CHINA’S TOURISM SECTOR

With a rich history, modern wonders, natural beauty and its world famous cuisine, china promises to offer an amazing experience to tourist.

There is a slight decline in the inbound tourism since 2007 there are various factors responsible for it such as:
1. Fluctuation of the exchange rate
2. Economic recession in European and American countries
3. The decline of the country’s national image caused by corruption
4. Air pollution and food security problems.

Various measures are being taken by Chinese government to increase its inbound tourism which consists of 72-hour visa-free transit, high speed trains to make travelling faster in china; various campaigns against pollution and to provide food security are being undertaken.

If we talk about outbound tourism china is seeing a growth because of increase in living standards, salaries of its people. The hottest destinations include South Korea, Japan, Thailand, France, Italy, Switzerland, Germany, USA, Singapore and Maldives, some of which are nearby Asian countries. The government expects domestic tourism expenditure to reach around US$890 billion by 2020 - more than double the figure in 2013.

The following figure summarises the factors for growth of outbound tourism in china:

Chinese have cash and a willingness to spend; the visa requirement for Chinese tourist is simpler in many courtiers with a view of luring them. Flights connections are better as well as Chinese entrepreneurs have set their sights on the fast growing tourism industry. Just like other Asian country Chinese people consider travelling abroad a sign of prestige.

DRAGON VS TIGER

A comparison between India and china’s tourism sector reveals that though India’s tourism is growing but still china is performing better than India. While China has already transformed itself into the world’s fourth most popular destination for foreign travellers, welcoming 26.1 million visitors from abroad ”Incredible India” managed to lure only 5.3 million. India and china are both ancient civilisations but Indian culture is still alive whereas Chinese culture is disappearing which is an advantage India need to take advantage off. The main reasons for better performance of Chinese tourism sector over India are Terrorism: one of the main hindrances in front of India is terrorism. For example Kashmir, one of the most beautiful places to visit is suffering from the burns of terrorism. Tourist tends to avoid such places due to safety reasons.

Inadequate infrastructure: lack of proper roads, transport facility is also adversely affecting our tourism. Beijing alone has as many star-rated hotel rooms as all of India. There is an urgent need to develop our infrastructure for development of our tourism.

Crime rates: security is an important factor while deciding your travel destination and that is where India falls behind China. let’s take an example say Delhi has so many historic buildings, parks, famous cuisine but it has a high crime rate specially against women so tourist specially women tourist who are travelling alone may skip Delhi from their list.

Cheating: many times tourist is cheated which also adversely affect our tourism sector.

Badly managed sites: you can easily see lumps of garbage, writings on walls of monuments and other unhygienic things all of this leaves a bad impression on the mist of tourist. As compared to China, India is lagging behind in this aspect.

CONCLUSION

Though India and China are both Asian countries with rich cultural heritage, China is performing better than India in tourism. India has a huge potential to become number one tourist destination with a variety of landscapes, different cultures, various cuisines etc. We need to take advantage of this diversity. For our tourism sector to flourish it is eminent that our infrastructure need to improve, government need to device an effective tourism strategy and concerns with respect to safety needed to be solved.
